TO REVIVE PICNIC

Congressional District Woodmen Association Has Been Slumbering.

CITY OF MOLINE WITHDRAWS

Effort to be Made to Restore Harmony—Big Affairs of the Past.

There is talk of a revival of the Congressional District Woodmen Picnic association, an institution that was allowed to pass into oblivion after the congressional reapportionment, which changed the district from the Tenth to the Fourteenth.

The reapportionment separated Rock Island county from three of its best neighbors, Knox, Henry and Stark. These counties had been enthusiastic supporters of the congressional picnic that was held annually, attracting thousands of Woodmen and their families for an outing of one or more days, at which prominent speakers were heard and a program of drills and sports carried out.

Moline is claimed to have been the principal offender in causing the defeat of the plans of the association, having gone into an arrangement last year with the Scott county (Iowa) association, and had a picnic at Prospect park that was nothing in comparison to the gatherings that were brought here in former years under the auspices of the Tenth Congressional District association. Moline's complaint was the city of Rock Island was enacting the role of wolf in seeking to become the permanent picnic ground of the association.

Rank Injustice to This City. When this impression was sent forth from Moline a rank injustice was done those identified with the association in this city. Rock Island was willing, in fact was desirous, of alternating the annual outing among the towns in the district that were able to accommodate the crowds, and were in a position to guarantee by public subscription the amount necessary for the entertainment of the people attracted by an affair of that character.

Each year when the picnic was voted to Rock Island it was done so only after the local members of the association pledged the raising of from $1,500 to $2,000 to provide music, decorations, prizes, etc. And the pledges here were in every instance fulfilled to the letter. When it came Moline's turn to act the part of host the members of the association there did not feel equal to shouldering the responsibility for the raising of the entertainment fund required, grew huffy at the Rock Island members, and then joined hands with an association in another state.

Should Get Together.

The Rock Island Woodmen are anxious for a revival of the annual district picnic. They are willing that it should be located in any city in the district, and they will support it as energetically as if it were to take place in their own city. In all parts of the jurisdiction of this great order these annual outings are had, and it is to be regretted that the counties having the headquarters in their midst cannot get along in harmony and set the pace, as they should, for the more remote districts in the matter of Woodmen celebrations. It is probable that a meeting will be called in the near future to discuss the reviving of the congressional district association.

FREDERICK WEYERHAEUSER THE GREATEST LUMBERMAN

The American Lumberman has this to say about a former Rock Islander: "The greatest lumberman of his day and age, Frederick Weyerhaeuser, of St. Paul, Minn., whose various lumber and timber companies, over which he exercises an influence of great power and in which he is represented as president, manager, director, stockholder and what not, with a total capacity of something over 1,500,000,000 feet of lumber annually, is visiting the world's fair at St. Louis this week. While in that city he is the guest of Charles H. Huttig, president of the Third National bank of St. Louis, one of the greatest financial institutions of financially great St. Louis and of which bank Mr. Weyerhaeuser is a director. Mr. Huttig, as is known to the lumber trade generally, is secretary and treasurer of the Huttig Sash & Door company, and is also one of the vice presidents of the Louisiana Purchase exposition, in the development of which he has been of the greatest possible service. Mr. Weyerhaeuser is admitted by all, and especially by those who know of his achievements, to be the leading representative of the lumber trade in the United States and of the world, and all who are acquainted with him will readily join in the sentiment that there is no more modest or more honorable man in commerce today than Frederick Weyerhaeuser."

Sued by His Doctor.

"A doctor here has sued me for $12.50, which I claim was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coahella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by all druggists.

FINDS HIS RUNAWAY SON IN CITY FACTORY

Father of Will Mayhew, Who Lives on Farm, Takes Him Away From Work Bench.

Thinking that he was mistreated by his parents, and deciding that city life beat country life all hollow, especially when a father who rules with a rod is at the head of the household, Will Mayhew, 19 years old, yesterday morning left his home in the country a short way from town and found work in a local factory.

But his metropolitan life was of short duration, for his stern parent did some Sherlock Holmes work while in search of the nomadic youth, and the boy was once more hauled back to his rural abode to dig the potatoes, cultivate the corn, and do other un-congenial work now in season on the farm.

The boy was diligently working in the shops learning the new fangled ways of indoor shop work when he felt a heavy hand upon his shoulder, and, looking up, saw the towering form of his father. "Come, son, back, my boy, and do it blameworthy, or I'll chastise you," said the papa. The boss of the shop was going to interfere, thinking that someone was butting in without any right, but the father informed the foreman that the boy was his own offspring, and it was all over. The heavy-hearted lad once more wended his way homeward, and arrived at the country domicile in time to milk the cows.

KING'S DAUGHTERS EARN $235 FROM THE BABY SHOW

After defraying all expenses the King's Daughters have $235 to place in their treasury from the baby show held two afternoons one week ago at Turner hall. They feel much encouraged over their effort, and doubtless will be introducing in the near future some other enterprise by which to swell the fund with which it is proposed to establish here a home for old ladies.
